

About the Authors

Abhishek Tiwari is a graduate student in computer science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign (UIUC), USA. He received a B.Tech in computer science and engineering from the Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur in 2003, and an M.S. in computer science from UIUC in 2005. His research focuses on power, performance and reliability of microprocessors. He is also actively involved in research in the field of science and spirituality with particular focus on machine intelligence and consciousness.

Sushant Sharma has done his B.Tech from Indian Institute of Technology Guwahati in 2000. He presently works for Roamware Pvt. Ltd., Mumbai, India as a Technical Leader and is involved in design and implementation of roaming solutions for different mobile operators. He has been a speaker in several conferences including AISSQ 2006. His interest lies in the study of the faculty of intelligence from a computational as well as Vedantic perspectives.

Ajeet K. Mall has done his M.Tech from Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore in 2002. He presently works for Analog Devices, India as a Senior Engineer and is involved in design and implementation of signal processing algorithms. He has published papers in leading magazines. His interest lies in the synthesis of Science and spirituality.